Australian Animals

Australia is a country in the south of the Pacific Ocean. Australia is known for its wildlife and has many native animals living there. In fact, most of the animals that live in Australia are not found anywhere else in the world.

Kangaroos

The kangaroo is probably the most well known Australian animal. Kangaroos are a type of animal called marsupials which means that they have a pouch. They use the pouch to carry their babies. A baby kangaroo is called a Joey. Kangaroos have large, strong legs which means they can jump very high. Their powerful legs can also be quite a dangerous weapon. Kangaroos are herbivores and mainly eat different types of grasses.

Koalas

Koalas are related to kangaroos as they too have pouches. They are often known as koala bears because they look cuddly but they are actually not bears at all! Most of a koala's day is spent sleeping in trees. Normally, they come out at sunset to eat and move around. They eat leaves from gum trees. Even though they live in a hot climate, they don't drink because they get enough water from the leaves they eat.

Did you know that there are more kangaroos than humans in Australia?
